THE MESSAGE.

Washington, March 11, 1834.

To the Senate:

I renominate Henry D. Gilpin, Peter Wager, and John T. Sullivan, of Philadelphia, and Hugh McElderry, of Baltimore, to be Directors in the Bank of the United States, for the year 1834.

I disclaim all pretensions of right, on the part of the President, officially to inquire into, or call in question, the reasons of the Senate for rejecting any nomination, whatsoever. As the President is not responsible to them for the reasons which induce him to make a nomination, so they are not responsible to him for the reasons which induce them to reject it. In these respects each is independent of the other, and both responsible to their respective constituents. Nevertheless, the attitude in which certain vital interests of the country are placed by the rejection of the gentlemen now renominated, require of me frankly to communicate my views of the consequences which must necessarily follow this act of the Senate, if it be not reconsidered.

The character and standing of these gentlemen are well known to the community, and eminently qualify them for the offices to which I propose to appoint them. Their confirmation by the Senate, at its last session, to the same offices is proof that such was the opinion of them entertained by the Senate at that time; and unless something has occurred since to change it, this act may now be referred to as evidence that their talents and pursuits justified their selection.

The refusal, however, to confirm their nominations to the same offices, shows that there is something in the conduct of these gentlemen, during the last year, which, in the opinion of the Senate, disqualifies them; and as no charge has been made against them, as men or citizens, nothing which impeaches the fair private character they possessed when the Senate gave them their sanction at its last session; and as it moreover appears from the journal of the Senate, recently transmitted for my inspection, that it was deemed unnecessary to inquire into their qualifications or character; it is to be inferred that the change in the opinion of the Senate, has arisen from the official conduct of these gentlemen. The only circumstances in their official conduct, which have been deemed of sufficient importance to attract public attention, are the two reports made by them to the Executive Department of the Government; the one bearing date the 22d day of April, and the other the 19th day of August last; both of which reports were communicated to the Senate by the Secretary of the Treasury, with his reasons for removing the deposits.

The truth of the facts stated in these reports is not, I presume, questioned by any one. The high character and standing of the citizens by whom they were made, prevent any doubt upon the subject. Indeed, the statements have not been denied by the President of the Bank, and the other Directors. On the contrary, they have insisted that they were authorized to use the money of the Bank in the manner stated in the two reports, and have not denied that the charges there made against the corporation are substantially true. It must be taken, therefore, as admitted, that the statements of the public Directors, in the reports above mentioned, are correct; and they disclose the most alarming abuses, on the part of the corporation, and the most strenuous exertions, on their part, to put an end to them. They prove that enormous sums were secretly lavished, in a manner, and for purposes, that cannot be justified; and that the whole of the immense capital of the Bank has been virtually placed at the disposal of a single individual, to be used, if he thinks proper, to corrupt the press, and to control the proceedings of the Government, by exercising an undue influence over elections.

The reports were made in obedience to my official directions; and I herewith transmit copies of my letters calling for information of the proceedings of the Bank. Were they bound to disregard the call? Was it their duty to remain silent, while abuses of the most injurious and dangerous character were daily practiced? Were they bound to conceal from the constituted authorities a course of measures destructive to the best interests of the country, and intended gradually and secretly to subvert the foundations of our Government, and to transfer its powers from the hands of the people to a great moneyed corporation? Was it their duty to sit in silence at the Board, and witness all these abuses, without an attempt to correct them; or, in case of failure there, not to appeal to higher authority? The eighth fundamental rule authorizes any one of the Directors, whether elected or appointed, who may have been absent when an excess of debt was created, or who may have dissented from the act, to exonerate himself from personal responsibility by giving notice of the fact to the President of the United States; thus recognizing the propriety of communicating to that officer the proceedings of the Board in such cases. But, independently of any argument to be derived from the principle recognized in the rule referred to, I cannot doubt for a moment that it is the right and the duty of every Director at the Board to attempt to correct all illegal proceedings, and, in case of failure to disclose them; and that every one of them, whether elected by the Stockholders or appointed by the Government, who had knowledge of the facts and concealed them, would be justly amenable to the severest censure.

But in the case of the public Directors it was their peculiar and official duty to make the disclosures; and the call upon them for information could not have been disregarded without a flagrant breach of their trust. The Directors appointed by the United States cannot be regarded in the light of the ordinary Directors of a Bank appointed by the Stockholders, and charged with the care of their pecuniary interests in the corporation. They have higher and more important duties. They are public officers. They are placed at the Board not merely to represent the stock held by the United States, but to observe the conduct of the corporation, and to watch over the public interests. It was foreseen that this great moneyed monopoly might be so managed as to endanger the interests of the country; and it was therefore deemed necessary, as a measure of precaution, to place at the Board watchful sentinels, who should observe its conduct, and stand ready to report to the proper officers of the Government every act of the Board which might affect injuriously the interests of the People.

The whole frame of the charter, as well as the manner of their appointment, proves this to be their true character. The United States are not represented at the Board by these Directors merely on account of the stock held by the Government. The right of the United States to appoint Directors, and the number appointed, do not depend upon the amount of the stock; for if every share should be sold, and the United States cease to be a stockholder altogether, yet, under the charter, the right to appoint five directors would still remain. In such a case what would be the character of the directors? They would represent no stock, and be chosen by no stockholder. Yet they would have a right to sit at the board; to vote on all questions submitted to it; and to be made acquainted with all the proceedings of the Corporation. They would not, in such a case, be ordinary directors chosen by the stockholders in proportion to their stock. But they would be public officers, appointed to guard the public interests; and their duties must conform to their office. They are not the duties of an ordinary director chosen by a stockholder; but they are the peculiar duties of a public officer, who is bound on all occasions to protect, to the utmost of his lawful means, the public interests; and, where his own authority is not sufficient to prevent injury, to inform those to whom the law has confided the necessary power. Such, then, is the character, and such are the duties, of the directors appointed by the United States, whether the public be stockholders or not. They are officers of the United States, and not the mere representatives of a stockholder.

The mode of their appointment, and their tenure of office, confirm this position. They are appointed, like other officers of the Government, and by the same authority. They do not hold their offices irrevocably a year after their appointment; on the contrary by the express terms of the law, they are liable to be removed from office at any time by the President, when in his judgment the public interest shall require it. In every respect, therefore, in which the subject can be considered, it is evident that the five directors, appointed by the United States are to be regarded as public officers; who are placed there in order to observe the conduct of the corporation, and to prevent abuses which might otherwise be committed.

Such being the character of the Directors appointed on behalf of the United States, it is obviously their duty to resist, and in case of failure to report to the President, or to the Secretary of the Treasury, any proceedings of the Board by which the public interest may be injuriously affected. The President may order a scire facias against the Bank, for a violation of its charter; and the Secretary of the Treasury is empowered to direct the money of the United States to be deposited elsewhere, when, in his judgment, the public interest requires it to be done. The Directors of this Bank, like all others, are accustomed to sit with closed doors, and do not report their proceedings to any Department of the Government. The monthly return, which the charter requires to be made to the Treasury Department, gives nothing more than a general statement of its pecuniary condition; and of that but an imperfect one. For, although it shows the amount loaned at the Bank and its different branches, it does not show the condition of its debtors, nor the circumstances under which the loans were made. It does not show whether they were in truth accommodations granted in the regular and ordinary course of business, upon fair banking principles, or from other motives. Under the name of loans, advances may be made to persons notoriously insolvent, for the most corrupt and improper purposes; and a course of proceeding may be adopted, in violation of its charter, while upon the face of its monthly statement, every thing would appear to be fair and correct.

How, then, is the Executive branch of the Government to become acquainted with the official conduct of the public directors, or the abuses practiced by the Corporation for its private ends, and in violation of its duty to the Public? The power of displacing the public directors, and that of issuing a scire facias, and of removing the deposits, were not intended to be idle and nugatory provisions, without the means of enforcement. Yet they must be wholly inoperative and useless, unless there be some means by which the official conduct of the public directors, and the abuses of power on the part of the Corporation, may be brought to the knowledge of the Executive Department of the Government.

Will it be said, that the power is given to the Secretary of the Treasury to examine, himself, or by his authorized agent, into the conduct and condition of the Bank? The answer is obvious. It could not have been expected or intended that he would make an examination, unless information was first given to him which excited his suspicions; and if he did make such a general examination, without previous information of misconduct, it is most probable, that in the complex concerns and accounts of a bank, it would result in nothing, whatever abuses might have been practiced.

It is, indeed, the duty of every director to give information of such misconduct on the part of the board. But the power to issue a scire facias, and to remove the deposits, presupposes that the directors elected by the stockholders might abuse their power; and it cannot be presumed that Congress intended to rely on these same directors to give information of their own misconduct. The Government is not accustomed to rely on the offending party to disclose his offence. It was intended that the power to issue a scire facias, and remove the deposits, should be real and effective. The necessary means of information were therefore provided in the charter; and five officers of the Government appointed, in the usual manner, responsible to the public and not to the stockholders, were placed as sentinels at the Board, and are bound, by the nature and character of their office, to resist, and, if unsuccessful, to report to the proper authority every infraction of the charter, and every abuse of power, in order that due measures should be taken to punish or correct it; and, in like manner, it is their duty to give, when called upon, any explanation of their own official conduct touching the management of the institution.

It was, perhaps, scarcely necessary to present to the Senate these views of the power of the Executive, and of the duties of the five directors appointed by the United States. But the Bank is believed to be now striving to obtain for itself the government of the country; and is seeking, by new and strained constructions, to wrest from the hands of the constituted authorities the salutary control reserved by the charter. And, as misrepresentation is one of its most usual weapons of attack, I have deemed it my duty to put before the Senate, in a manner not to be misunderstood, the principles on which I have acted.

Entertaining, as I do, a solemn conviction of the truth of these principles, I must adhere to them, and act upon them with constancy and firmness.

Aware, as I now am, of the dangerous machinations of the Bank, it is more than ever my duty to be vigilant in guarding the rights of the People from the impending danger. And I should feel that I ought to forfeit the confidence with which my countrymen have honored me, if I did not require regular and full reports of every thing in the proceedings of the Bank, calculated to effect injuriously the public interests, from the public directors. And, if the directors should fail to give the information called for, it would be my imperious duty to exercise the power conferred on me by the law, of removing them from office, and of appointing others who would discharge their duties with more fidelity to the public. I can never suffer any one to hold office under me who would connive at corruption, or who should fail to give the alarm, when he saw the enemies of Liberty endeavoring to sap the foundations of our free institutions, and to subject the free People of the United States to the dominion of a great moneyed corporation.

Any Directors of the Bank, therefore, who might be appointed by the Government, would be required to report to the Executive as fully as the late Directors have done, and more frequently, because the danger is more imminent; and it would be my duty to require of them a full detail of every part of the proceedings of the corporation, or any of its officers, in order that I might be enabled to decide whether I should exercise the power of ordering a scire facias, which is reserved to the President by the charter, or adopt such other lawful measures as the interests of the country might require. It is too obvious to be doubted that the misconduct of the corporation would never have been brought to light by the aid of public proceeding at the Board of Directors. The board when called on by the Government Directors, refused to institute an inquiry, or require an account; and the mode adopted by the latter was the only one by which the object could be attained. It would be absurd to admit the right of the Government Directors to give information, and, at the same time, deny the means of obtaining it. It would be but another mode of enabling the Bank to conceal its proceedings, and practice, with impunity, its corruptions. In the mode of obtaining the information, therefore, and in their effort to put an end to the abuses disclosed, as well as in reporting them, the conduct of the late directors was judicious and praiseworthy; and the honesty, firmness, and intelligence which they have displayed, entitle them, in my opinion, to the gratitude of the country.

But, if I do not mistake the principles on which the Senate have recently rejected them, the conduct which I deem worthy of praise, they treat as a breach of duty; and, in their judgement, the measures which they took to obtain the information, and their efforts to put an end to the practices disclosed, and the reports they have made to the Executive, although true in all their parts, are regarded as an offence, and supposed to require some decisive marks of strong disapprobation.

If the views of the Senate be such as I have supposed, the difficulty of sending to the Senate any other names than those of the late directors, will be at once apparent. I cannot consent to place before the Senate the name of any one who is not prepared, with firmness and honesty, to discharge the duties of a public director, in the manner they were fulfilled by those whom the Senate have refused to confirm. If, for performing a duty lawfully required of them by the Executive, they are to be punished by the subsequent rejection of the Senate, it would not only be useless, but cruel, to place men of character and honor in that situation, if even such men could be found to accept it. If they failed to give the required information, or to take proper measures to obtain it, they would be removed by the Executive. If they gave the information, and took proper measures to obtain it, they would upon the next nomination, be rejected by the Senate. It would be unjust, in me, to place any other citizens in the predicament in which this unlooked for decision of the Senate has placed the estimable and honorable men who were directors during the last year.

I am not in error in relation to the principles upon which these gentlemen have been rejected, the necessary consequence will be that the Bank will hereafter be without Government Directors, and the people of the United States must be deprived of their chief means of protection against its abuses; for whatever conflicting opinions may exist as to the right of the directors, appointed in January, 1833, to hold over until new appointments shall be made, it is very obvious that, whilst their rejection by the Senate remains in force, they cannot, with propriety, attempt to exercise such a power. In the present state of things, therefore, the corporation will be enabled effectually to accomplish the object it has been so long endeavoring to obtain. Its exchange committees, and its delegated powers to its President, may hereafter be dispensed with, without incurring the danger of exposing its proceedings to the public view. The sentinels which the law had placed at its board can no longer appear there.

Justice to myself and to the faithful officers by whom the public has been so well and so honorably served, without compensation or reward, during the last year, has required of me this full and frank exposition of my motives for nominating them again, after their rejection by the Senate. I repeat that I do not question the right of the Senate to confirm or reject at their pleasure; and if there had been any reason to suppose that the rejection in this case had not been produced by the causes to which I have attributed it, or if my views of their duties, and the present importance of their rigid performance, were other than they are, I should have cheerfully acquiesced, and attempted to find others who would accept the unenviable trust. But I cannot consent to appoint directors of the Bank, to be the subservient instruments, or silent spectators, of its abuses and corruptions; nor can I ask honorable men to undertake the thankless task, with the certain prospect of being rebuked by the Senate for its faithful performance, in pursuance of the lawful directions of the Executive.

I repeat that I do not claim a right to inquire into, or officially to censure, the acts of the Senate. But the situation in which the important interests of the American people, vested in the Bank of the United States, and affected by its arrangements, must necessarily be left by the rejection of the gentlemen now renominated, has made it my duty to give this explanation to the Senate, and submit the matter to their re-consideration. It shall be determined by the Senate that all channels of information, in relation to the corrupt proceedings of this dangerous corporation, shall be cut off, and the Government and country left exposed to its unrestrained machinations against the purity of the press, and the public liberty, I shall, after having made this effort to avert so great an evil, rest, for the justification of my official course, with respectful confidence, on the judgment of the American people.

In conclusion, it is proper I should inform the Senate that there is now no Government Director appointed for the present year—Mr Bayard, who was nominated and confirmed by the Senate, having refused to accept that appointment. ANDREW JACKSON.

Messrs Maynard & Noyes,
Gentlemen—Yours of Dec. 27, was duly received; in reply to which I briefly state that I have used your Powder manufactured by you, and no other, for more than ten years past. I think it makes the best Ink I ever used, and while the quality remains pure, I shall not think of looking for any other kind.
Yours, respectfully,
N. DANFORTH, Cashier.

Register's Office, New York, Oct. 25, 1831.
Messrs Maynard & Noyes,
Gentlemen—Having used your Ink about six years we have no hesitation in pronouncing it superior to any we have heretofore used, and as such cheerfully recommend it. Respectfully, your obedient servant,
JAMES McMURRAY,
DAVID GLADD,
GEORGE MORTIMER.

Patriotic Bank, Washington City, April 10, 1832.
Messrs Maynard & Noyes,
Gentlemen—For the last year I have been using your Black Ink. I have been much pleased with it, and have no hesitation in recommending it to all who are desirous of giving permanency to their writing.
O. CARR, Cashier.

Bank of Michigan, Detroit, July 6, 1830.
We have used Ink, prepared from Messrs Maynard & Noyes' Ink Powder, for several years past and are quite satisfied with it. It flows easily from the pen and has a brilliancy and permanency of color which are not commonly found in other Ink.
C. C. TROWBRIDGE, Cashier.

Beware of Counterfeits.
We are sorry to have to add to the above testimonials the evidence of Counterfeits, who, by selecting it for imitation, declare their opinion that it stands foremost in commanding a ready and extensive sale. To enable purchasers to distinguish the genuine from the counterfeit and thus protect themselves from the fraud, the manufacturers have adopted a new label, composed of interlocking colors of black and red.
Sold by the manufacturers, Nos. 13 and 15, Cornhill, Boston, and by Booksellers, Stationers, Hardware Merchants and Traders generally throughout the United States.

DR. WARNER'S PURIFYING VEGETABLE POWDERS, OR FAMILY BITTERS.
Yielding its strength to Wine or Water.
As a security against counterfeits, the label will be signed by the wholesale agent, PARKER BARNES. Likewise the steel plate will be observed, as there is a spurious article, which has been offered to the public.

In the spring of the year, every one is troubled more or less with a propensity to sleep, and by the use of this corrective it can be obviated entirely. For purifying and eradicating all kinds of humors from the blood, even if they appear externally in the face, or any part of the body, it is much better and far more efficacious than any external application; in fact I seldom knew it to fail in proving effectual. The patient will find it operates more in a healthy manner than any other preparation ever referred to; it is far better than salts, sulphur, cream tartar, or any preparation of this kind, for when the blood is once purified with this corrective, it remains in an even temperature through the summer months. For a full stomach, jaundice, general debility, weakness of limbs, want of appetite, biliousness and liver complaints, indigestion, &c., &c. For the catarrh, which is generally occasioned by the impure state of the blood, there is nothing extant that has proved so efficacious as this purifying corrective. For all the above complaints it is seldom known to fail in proving an effectual remedy.

It is really worth the public attention, as every one is aware of the unpleasant, dull, heavy feeling, which the spring of the year produces; and by the use of this corrective, it can be obviated entirely. Every one who makes use of the above preparation will be astonished at the mild and gentle effect it has on the blood.

CERTIFICATES.
This is to certify, that I have been troubled in the spring and summer seasons with a dull and stupid feeling, which was much relieved by the use of Dr. Warner's Family Bitters, or Purifying Powder, for purifying the blood, and curing of jaundice, and likewise removing the propensity to sleep, and has found it an effectual remedy.
April 18, 1832.
I hereby certify that I have taken Warner's Vegetable Purifying Bitters for the cure of jaundice, and removing the propensity to sleep, which I am always troubled with in the spring of the year. From the benefit which I have received for the above complaints, I cordially recommend it to all that may be similarly afflicted.
JOHN B. FINN.

Feeling grateful for the benefit which I have received from taking Dr. Warner's Vegetable Bitters, for the cure of the jaundice, weakness of the limbs, want of appetite, indigestion, &c. do recommend it as a safe and efficacious remedy for the above complaints.
P. COFFIN.

Boston, March 14, 1832.
Other reference to its efficacy may be had by calling on the agent. To be had at wholesale of my sole agent in this city, PARKER BARNES, No. 424 Washington street, in Boston and vicinity.

DOMESTIC INSTRUMENT.—The natural and indiscriminate use of purgative drugs can only afford a temporary relief, by unnaturally stimulating the digestive organs, which they exhaust of their secretions, and thereby render them incapable of performing even their most essential functions. The proper function is with the degree of energy required to support the body in health. The great utility of Lavements or Domestic Clysters, the use of which has long been practised in France and England, is at length so far established in the opinions of the medical profession in this country, as generally to be resorted to in the cure of our most common affections, and is especially applicable to the treatment of the dyspeptic or bilious patients. Hitherto one of the greatest obstacles to the general adoption of Domestic Clysters has been the inconvenient construction and unwieldy size of the instruments employed for this purpose. This instrument may be used by an invalid without assistance, and is so portable as to be carried about in the pocket without inconvenience. The flexible tube, commonly employed for apparatus of this kind, from its want of durability, having proved a source of great inconvenience, particularly to persons residing in the country, a new kind of tubing is manufactured under the protection of a patent, which is essentially different from that of any other instrument, and is equally durable and perfect in all climates. For sale by the quantity, or at retail, at 45 Milk street, opposite Federal street.

LARGE DISCOUNTS FOR CASH.
The subscribers, believing the present system of credit injurious to both the buyer and seller, and wishing to change the same, so far as practicable, have determined to commence a Cash Business—and will offer this date discount from their former prices 8 per cent for cash—thereby giving those who are in the habit of cashing their bills, some real advantage, and also holds out to others an inducement to adopt the same course. It is the frequent complaint of those who settle their bills promptly, that they "pay for others' delinquencies."
